BUSINESS CHALLENGE

After a period of intense transformation, Skillsoft's executive team requested the creation and deployment of a mixed-level leadership development program for 69 global sales leaders, and to build a pipeline of future leaders, 13 high potential field salespeople.

The program needed to align with specific business goals and outcomes predetermined by the executive team, accommodate a globally dispersed and remote workforce working under tight sales targets, and include tools to measure the value and impact of the initiative.

HOW SKILLSOFT® HELPED

Using John Maxwell's Five Levels of Leadership as the framework, the Sales Enablement team created Leadership in Focus, an award-winning five-month blended learning program.

Each month a live virtual leader-led session introduced the month's theme. Skillsoft's Business Skills and Leadership content, supplemented by publicly available articles and blogs, provided participants with multi-modal learning opportunities available anytime and anywhere.

Learners then participated in triad discussion groups comprising people from different locations and business units to encourage diversity of thought and application of learning.
